GMP Webinar Endotoxin Masking - LER Update

Background

In the last years the LAL test has become the preferred system to test for endotoxins – for the in process control as well as in the final inspection – and it is anchored in the pharmacopoeias. However, in the recent past, the problem of low endotoxin recovery employs the pharmaceutical microbiology. Masking – or not? Evidence gaps? And how can I close them? And how to evaluate?

These are the questions the pharmaceutical microbiologists as well as those responsible for the release have to deal with.

Educational Objectives

In this webinar you will get an insight into the current situation:

- 1) Background
- 2) Conflictive observations
- 3) Understanding conflictive results
- 4) Optimization of current detection methods
- 5) Regulatory review

Target Audience

- Laboratory management and staff of pharmaceutical microbiology
- Microbiologists and laboratory assistants from contract laboratories
- Authority representatives involved in the topic
- Scientific staff from the area pyrogen testing
- QA staff who has to evaluate endotoxin results and deviations

Speaker

Johannes Reich, University Regensburg, Germany

Johannes Reich studied business administration and chemistry in Regensburg. Currently, he is working on his doctoral thesis on “function-structure relationship of Lipopolysaccharide with recombinant factor C test systems” at the Institute for physical and theoretical chemistry. He deals with the problems of modern endotoxin detection methods and with the problem of low endotoxin recovery. In the meantime he worked as product manager at Profos AG in Regensburg.

Participation of a Group

You have colleagues who also want to participate in the webinar? Then register yourself and your colleagues as a GROUP! You can view the webinar either together (e.g. in a conference room, etc.) or also each individually on your own PC.
